2. This paper was prepared in response to a DD/P request for information [REDACTED]

3. The responsible analysts have prepared the materials available in a competent manner. Possible sources not yet available to us and use of these sources are suggested in the text of the report.

4. As a research paper this is a detailed and reliable report. Its form, as a compilation of information rather than an analysis, follows the DD/P request. One portion of the DD/P request, a description of interrelations of the named firms, we were unable to fulfill because of source limitations. These limitations and possible methods of overcoming them are discussed in the report.
